Angels and warriors and saints and sibyls stand separate, the one never touching the other, each alone against the pale greenish background. The very bodies seem reduced to the least possible. It is the embodiment, with only as little body as is absolutely required, of a soul; and that soul simplified, rarified into only one condition of being, -- beatitude of contemplation. And as the bodies are separate, isolated from all physical objects, so is the soul: it touches no other human soul, touches no earthly interest; it is alone, motionless; space and time and change have ceased for it; contemplating, absorbing for all eternity that which the eye cannot see, nor the hand touch, nor the will influence, --the mysterious, the ineffable. Are they really saints and angels, and prophets and sibyls? Surely not--for all such act or suffer; for each of...
