Let us now consider another phase of this science that cannot fail to be observed by some poor soul in despair. In the last volume we have given descriptions of various diseases, the aspects that cause these so-called afflictions, etc. In some instances it was judged that the disease was incurable or that the patient would fail to recover. Under such conditions we can readily understand how the investigator might consider such conditions from his own limited point of view and reason in this wise: If through the aid of this science I could find the means of curing my child or wife or husband, I should then consider it most useful, while on the other...
